BINDING STYLES AVAILABLE FROM IFA

PLAIN COLOURED JUTE, COTTON or LINEN BINDINGS:

We have a large range of plain coloured bindings to choose from, these bindings can be applied in two methods

- Standard binding method: Showing a 50mm wide binding, top stitched with folded mitered corners, see top right.
- Deluxe binding method: Showing a 70mm wide binding, blind stitched (a technique used to conceal the stitching) with padding and tailored mitered corners, see middle right.

You can also choose from narrow or wider finish binding widths, twin or triple coloured edgings.

TAPESTRY & FABRIC BINDING:

We have a range of European tapestry and fabric bindings to choose from, however we can also apply your own fabrics to our carpets. All tapestry and fabric bindings are applied using our Deluxe binding method only, normally showing around a 120mm wide binding, however this may vary due to the style of the particular fabric required. LEATHER BINDING:

We have a range of leather bindings to choose from. Again all leather bindings are applied using our Deluxe binding method only (see top left). Showing a 70mm wide binding but you can choose the thickness of the binding, anywhere between 30mm up to 120mm wide finish.

TURNED EDGES WITH UNDERLAY:

This is our most simple way of making a rug without an edging, where we turn and glue back the edges, like a hem and then we adhere an underlay to the underside of the rug. This gives a flat finish and a softer feel under foot. This method of binding does result in the rug having slightly rounded corners (see middle left).

SELF EDGING:

This is our premium style of binding, where we use the same product as the floor rug for the border, normally showing an 120mm wide finish, but again you can choose the thickness of binding from 70mm upwards. Self edging is an understated, very elegant and timeless finish (see bottom left).

UNDERLAY:

Our underlay can be added to all of our floor rugs, this giving better sound absorption and a softer feel under foot.
